We discussed this today as part of preparing for meetings next week. We will get good independent expert advice along with what we have been getting from the bankers. This will be interesting given that they are public and subject to very tight rules. Will keep you posted.

Atlantis CEO wants to do the deal with HP and he believes that we are the ideal partner. The concern is an interloper that will turn the deal into a public take over battle with a chance that Atlantis would be in the wrong hands. We should work with a true specialist in local take over practices and we can count on Atlantis support to help structure this in the best possible way.

Best regards,

Léo

Thanks for the note. We can discuss the plan when we get a chance to talk. We have the teams together there the last week in June for a comprehensive session....

Tile to put a plan together that will make our joint idea into a success without anyone being able to interloop.
